He married CATHERINE DOLAN 14-February-1867 in St. Marys Cathedral, Sydney, NSW, Australia, daughter of DANIEL DOLAN and BRIDGET DOLAN.

Notes for WILLIAM JONATHON CRAFT:

William Johathan CRAFT arrived aged 20 into Sydney from England by ship finially after the two previous attempts ending in shipwrecks.

According to an old letter, William arrived on the 21st Aug. 1857 the day after the tragic loss of the ship "Dunbar" off the Gap. Following a search of the shipping records there is no mention of William's arrival, so we can only asume he paid his own fare.

He spent some time at Penrith before trying his luck at Bathurst and Gulgong goldfields, eventually drifting northwest to Cobborah and obtaining employment at Cobborah Station, a huge sheep farm. He leased 200 acres of land on the Talbragar River and established a market garden. After many years in the bush working the land, he returned to Penrith where Catherine DOLAN from Limerick Ireland had waited for him all that time. He married her in the St Mary's Cathedral, Sydney on 14th Feb, 1867. They both travelled to Cobborah by Cobb & Co wagon where they started home life and farming on their grant of land in a timber and bark hut with a dirt floor raising their six (6) children: George in 1868, Emma in 1869, Charles in 1871, William John in 1873, James Daniel in 1876 and John Henry in 1880. According to history Charles and William John became sucessfull business men, whereas the other boys turned to the land. The famers were, ultimately, the successful ones. William Johathan CRAFT travelled widely throughout the west selling produce from his orchard and market gardens and continues to grow fruit and vegetables until his death in 1907.
